A Year of Opportunity, Challenge, and Progress

Most charitable foundations – and especially most community foundations – are designed for permanence. We’re here to take a longer, wider view of what will benefit our community over time. As such, we try to be deliberate about change and action.

Last year was a good reflection of this approach. The Foundation’s Investment Committee worked diligently to complete a thorough review of our investment philosophy and consultant relationship. In the end, we elected to place most of the endowed pool under the guidance of Vanguard Institutional Advisory Services. We also continued to lead the Forward Wayne County initiative and succeeded in hiring a person to manage the day-to-day responsibilities of that effort.

Were it not for the market swoon in the fourth quarter, 2018 would have been an outstanding year in every respect.

- We received $2.6 million in new gifts and receivables, representing nearly a 92% increase over the previous year. The difference, of course, was a $1 million award we received from Lilly Endowment Inc. contingent on our ability to secure gifts into certain endowed funds.

- For the second time in its history, the Foundation awarded a little more than $2 million in grants, distributions, and scholarships over the course of the year. As usual, support for education is the single largest program category, with scholarships alone accounting for about $599,000 of that total.

- We booked eleven new funds and one new testamentary fund. Additionally, two Acorn funds matured into new active funds and two funds were created due to estate gifts. At least two of the new funds in 2018 were in connection with activities related to Forward Wayne County.

- As noted above, the market was not our friend last year. The Foundation’s total assets under management fell $2.1 million to $40.8 million as of December 31. (Thankfully, this loss was more than recovered in the first quarter of 2019.)

- Administratively, we were under budget and our operating reserves well within our target range.

All in all, your Wayne County Foundation remains fiscally strong and well-positioned for future service to the community.
